

Electricity market data on smartphones and tablets

Now also for Android: ProCom app provides intraday electricity market data

Aachen (Germany), September 22, 2017 – The ITA mobile app from ProCom is for everyone who wants to keep a constant eye on the intraday electricity market from their smartphone or tablet. The app provides an overview of prices and price trends for products traded on EPEX SPOT, including trade volumes for the market segments Germany, Austria, Switzerland, France, Belgium and the Netherlands. The ITA mobile app presents trading activities in chronological order and shows order books, market depth, and price trends of individual contracts. Users can also view and compare details of selected products. In addition, the app offers a handy reminder function for traders to alert them product trading deadlines.

ITA mobile for Android is available for download at Google Play as a free basic version which contains ads and updates the data two times per hour. A pay version without ads and live data subscription (EUR 4.99 per month) will be available soon as an in-app purchase.

ITA mobile for iOS, available in the App Store for EUR 7.99, updates the data every half hour. Continuous updating is available with a live data subscription for EUR 4.99/month.
